

Coach Call Notes Form

This working sheet captures the practical pattern, decisions, and follow-up points from Session 1 and Session 2 without turning the notes into a technical report.

Use this form to track

Opening tone, pressure points, friction patterns, priorities, ownership, follow-up notes, and whether the session stayed calm, practical, and within scope.

Client details

Field	Notes
Couple names
Session number	Session 1 / Session 2
Date and time
Delivery format
Main contact
Follow-up due date

Opening notes

Record how the couple arrived, what felt tense or avoidant, and whether any extra grounding or reassurance was needed at the start.

Opening area	Notes
General tone at the start
Key concerns voiced early
Signs of tension, avoidance, or imbalance
Anything needing gentle reassurance

Session 1 notes

Use this section to capture the real picture without turning the notes into a data dump. Focus on what is actually creating friction or confusion.

Session 1 area	Notes
Main spending pressures
Savings or debt themes
Organisational gaps or confusion
Repeating money conversations or friction loops
Uneven mental load or responsibility patterns
What feels most important to clarify next

Between-session prompts

Record the light prompts or follow-up questions sent after Session 1 so Session 2 starts with continuity rather than drift.

Prompt area	Notes
Main reflection prompt
Any information requested
Priority topics to revisit in Session 2
Risks of drift or avoidance before next session

Session 2 notes

Capture the decisions and agreements that make the plan usable in real life, with clear ownership and realistic follow-through.

Session 2 area	Notes
Main priorities agreed
Decisions made together
Habits or routines introduced
Ownership of next actions
Anything deferred for later
Risks to follow-through
What would make the plan easier to sustain

Delivery quality check and follow-up draft

Checkpoint	Notes
Did the conversation feel calm and practical?
Did both partners contribute?
Did the session avoid turning into technical advice?
Did the couple leave with more clarity than they arrived with?
Was the next step explicit?
Main priorities for written follow-up
Agreed next steps for written follow-up

The aim of these notes is not to create a formal report. The aim is to capture enough detail to support a calm, useful, practical client experience.
